In 2002, as growth and development issues began to affect our community, I felt compelled to become involved because I care deeply about Wildomar, its varied residents, their quality of life and the community's potential long-term viability. I educated myself on planning, development, transportation, fiscal, environmental and regulatory issues and began advocating for our community at the local, county and state level.

The direction of the City Council's work in Wildomar is something that can profoundly affect our community. It will involve hard work, dedication, the ability to compromise without sacrificing integrity, and a cohesive vision of our community's next phase of life and the steps needed to get there.

I believe by asking citizens to become involved in a Visioning Process we can come to a consensus on a positive future vision. By employing innovative planning, conservation and conservative fiscal policies, we can while maintain our unique chosen lifestyle, yet improve upon what makes Wildomar special.
